SKIN-TORTURED BABIES

And Tired, Fretted Mothers

Find Comfort in Cuticura Soap and Ointment

When All Other Remedies and Physicians Fail.

Instant relief and refreshing sleep for skin-tortured babies and rest for tired, worried mothers in warm baths with Cuticura Soap, and gentle anointings with Cuticura Ointment, purest of emollient skin cures, to be followed in severe cases by mild doses of Cuticura Resolvent Pills. This is the purest, sweetest, most speedy, permanent and economical treatment for torturing, disfiguring, itching, burning, bleeding, scaly, crusted and pimply skin and scaly humours, with loss of hair, of infants and children, as well as adults, and is sure to succeed when all other remedies and the best physicians fail. The agonizing itching and burning of the skin, as in eczema; the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair and crusting of the scalp, as in scalded head; the facial disfigurement, as in pimples and ringworm; the awful suffering of infants, and anxiety of worn-out parents, as in milk crust, tetter and salt rheum,—all demand a remedy of almost superhuman virtues to successfully cope with them. That Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills are such stands proven beyond all doubt. No statement is made regarding them that is not justified by the strongest evidence. The purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, the certainty of speedy and permanent cure, the absolute safety and great economy have made them the standard skin cures and humors remedies of the civilized world.

CAVALRY TOO LUXURIOUS.

Good Food and Little Work Makes Poor Soldiers, Says Baden-Powell.

New York, April 30.—General Baden-Powell, before sailing for England on the completion of his tour in this country speaking of the United States cavalry, said:

"I rather expected to find more men of fine physique in your cavalry and was surprised to find the reverse. They enjoy too many luxuries in their food, and their system of exercise is not thorough. Their food is too highly seasoned. They should be deprived of coffee altogether and should only have an occasional portion of tea. The British cavalrymen, who, in barracks, have a salt water bath every day, which keeps them in perfect physical condition.

"Plain diet vigorous exercise, combined with regular drill, are what have made the British cavalrymen superior to all other cavalrymen in the world. Your cavalry have not yet had a hard campaign, like the Boer war, to show their staying powers. I am inclined to think that if the chance ever comes there mode of life will entail a long sick list.

"Your cavalry horses cannot be equalled. Probably 50 per cent of the horses in the British cavalry are American bred, and they are able to wear 5 per cent of their riders in a two weeks' journey.

"They are especially good over rough and dry country.

"Your cavalry man is more active, both physically and mentally than the average British horseman, but I think he lacks the staying powers. I consider your second cavalry the most efficient in rank and file, as well as the best officered."

AMERICAN ARTISTS AT SALON.

Portraits of Roosevelt and King Attract Large Crowds.

Paris, April 30.—A preliminary view of the pictures of the national salon was held yesterday. Today is the opening day. Many pictures of high order are exhibited and Chantant's portrait of President Roosevelt occupies a prominent place. Opposite the portrait of the American president is hung one of the sensational pictures of the exhibition. This is Ferrier's representation of Christ after the crucifixion. It shows his emaciated body and gaping wounds. Mary horror-stricken, is standing by his side.

Another sensational picture is Beroud's "Anathema," symbolizing the catastrophe at Martinique. It shows masses of vivid flame enveloping the town of St. Pierre, and the ships in the harbor, with a mythical figure hovering above and hurling down the anathemas.

A portrait of Mr. Kruger, in which the old Boer is shown bending over his Bible, divides attention with the Roosevelt portrait.

American artists are well represented at this year's salon.

UNION MAN DRIVES PRESIDENT.

Hitch in St. Louis Parade Prevented by Change of Plans.

Kansas City, Apr. 30.—President Roosevelt will ride through the city in a union carriage driven by a member of the Hackdrivers' union. The reception committee had planned to have the president occupy a private carriage belonging to a wealthy woman of this city, whose coachman is non-union. The officers of the union notified the committee that no union driver would appear in the procession following a non-union driver and the committee changed its plans.

FOUR POWDER EXPLOSIONS.

Nine Employees Killed and Entire Plant Destroyed—All Living Are Injured.

Hollidaysburg, Pa. April 30.—The extensive plant of the Crescent Powder company at Cranestock, about 10 miles north of here, was wrecked by four explosions this morning. Of the 30 employees nine were killed outright and all the others were badly injured by being blown about the buildings in which they were employed.

ST LOUIS FAIR DEDICATED

entire equality with those in the commonwealths whose sons once signed the Declaration of Independence. But this way of looking at the matter is purely modern, and in its origin purely American. When Washington during his presidency saw new states come into the union on a footing of complete equality with the old, every European nation which had colonies still administered them as dependencies, and every mother-country treated the colonist not as a self-governing equal but as a subject.

The process which we began has since been followed by all the great peoples who were capable both of expansion and self-government, and now the world accepts it as the natural process, as the rule; but a century and a quarter ago it was not merely exceptional; it was unknown.

This, then, is the great historic significance of the movement of continental expansion in which the Louisiana purchase was the most striking single achievement. It stands out in marked relief among the feats of a nation of pioneers, a nation whose people have from the beginning been picked out by a process of natural selection from among the most enterprising individuals of the nations of western Europe. The acquisition of the territory is a credit to the broad and far-sighted statesmanship of the great statesmen to whom it was immediately due, and above all to the aggressive and masterful character of the hardy pioneer folk to whose restless energy these statesmen gave expression and direction, whom they followed rather than led. The history of the land comprised within the limits of the purchase is an epitome of the entire history of our people. Within these limits we have gradually built up state after state until now many times over surpass in wealth, population, and in many-sided development, the original 13 states as they were when their delegates met in the continental congress. The people of these states have shown themselves mighty in war with their fellow-men, and mighty in strength to tame the rugged wilderness. They could not have thus conquered the forest and the prairie, the mountain and the desert, had they not possessed the great fighting virtues, the qualities which enable a people to overcome the forces of hostile men and hostile nature. On the other hand, they could not have used aright their conquest had they not in addition possessed the qualities of self-mastery and self-restraint, the power of acting in combination with their fellows, the power of yielding obedience to the law and of building up an orderly civilization. Courage and hardihood are indispensable virtues in a people; but the people which possesses no others can never rise high in the scale of power or culture. Great peoples must have in addition the governmental capacity which comes only when individuals fully recognize their duties to one another and to the whole body politic, and are able to join together in feats of constructive statesmanship and an honest and efficient administration.

The old pioneer days are gone, with their roughness and their hardship, their incredible toil and their wild half-savage romance. But the need of the pioneer virtue remains the same as ever. The peculiar frontier conditions have vanished; but the manliness and stalwart hardihood of the frontiersmen can be given even a freer scope under the conditions surrounding the complex industrialism of the present day. In this great region acquired for our people under the presidency of Jefferson, this region stretching from the Gulf to the Canadian border, from the Mississippi to the Rockies the material of the old days were great because the men who lived in them had mighty qualities; and we must make the new days great by showing these same qualities. We must insist upon courage and resolution, upon hardihood, tenacity and fertility in resource; we must insist upon the strong virile virtues; and we must insist no less upon the virtues of self-restraint, self-mastery, regard for the rights of others; we must show our abhorrence of cruelty, brutality, and corruption, in public and in private life alike. If we come short in any of these qualities we shall measurably fail; and if, as I believe we shall, we develop these qualities in the future to an even greater degree than in the past, then in the century now beginning we shall make of this republic the freest and most orderly, the most just and most mighty nation which has ever come forth from the womb of time.

and social progress has been so vast that alike for weal and woe its people now share the opportunities and bear the burdens common to the entire civilized world. The problems before us are fundamentally the same east and west of the Mississippi. In the new states and in the old and exactly the same qualities are required for their successful solution.

We meet here today to commemorate a great event, an event which marks an era in statesmanship no less than in pioneering. It is fitting that we should pay our homage in words; but we must in honor make our words good by deeds. We have every right to take a just pride in the great deeds of our forefathers; but we show ourselves unworthy to be their descendants if we make what they did an excuse for our 'ying supine instead of an incentive to the effort to show ourselves by our acts worthy of them. In the matter of administration of city, state and nation, in the management of our home life and the conduct of our business and social relations, we are bound to show certain high and fine qualities of character under penalty of seeing the whole heart of our civilization eaten out while the body still lives.

We justly pride ourselves on our marvelous material prosperity, and such prosperity must exist in order to establish a foundation upon which a higher life can be built; but unless we do in very fact build this higher life thereon, the material prosperity itself will go for but very little. Now, in 1902, in the altered conditions, we must meet the changed and changing problems with the spirit shown by the men who in 1802 and in the subsequent years gained, explored, conquered and settled this vast territory, then a desert, now filled with thriving and populous states.

The old days were great because the men who lived in them had mighty qualities; and we must make the new days great by showing these same qualities. We must insist upon courage and resolution, upon hardihood, tenacity and fertility in resource; we must insist upon the strong virile virtues; and we must insist no less upon the virtues of self-restraint, self-mastery, regard for the rights of others; we must show our abhorrence of cruelty, brutality, and corruption, in public and in private life alike. If we come short in any of these qualities we shall measurably fail; and if, as I believe we shall, we develop these qualities in the future to an even greater degree than in the past, then in the century now beginning we shall make of this republic the freest and most orderly, the most just and most mighty nation which has ever come forth from the womb of time.

DESERTERS WERE HUNGRY.

One Hundred and Five Sailors Leave the Independence.

Vallejo, Cal., April 30.—There has been an epidemic of desertions from the navy on this coast for some months past, but this month's report beats the record. It is said that 105 men have failed to return to the receiving ship Independence since the last pay day. When the enlisted men are questioned for a cause, all claim it is because of a poor and scanty fare.

MESSAGE ON CUFF SAVED LIFE.

In the recent fire in one of our large cities an actor made known his presence on the roof of the burning building by writing a message on his cuff and casting it to the street. This wise act resulted in saving his life. It is also a wise act for anyone suffering from stomach, liver or kidney disorders to commence taking Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It may be the means of saving your life, too, because when these diseases are allowed to run without attention serious results often occur. Commence taking the bitters today and notice the improvement in your condition. Especially in the spring it is every beneficial. It will also cure la grippe, indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness and insomnia. Avoid all substitutes.
